What are we about?

The Changing Horses team works across both EAGALA and Eponaquest framework's offering a variety of experiential learning opportunities for personal growth and development.

Whether you're interested in horse or human development—or both—our programmes will assist you to develop and strengthen skills such as leadership, assertiveness, emotional regulation & intelligence, communication, mindfulness, insight, conflict resolution and authentic relationships.

A Changing Horses workshop allows you to experience what it means to truly connect & thrive in life, and offers you tools to help you access your authenticity, creativity and intuition. Ours is a client centred, unique & empowering approach which will expand your vision, widen your horizons and allow you to relate meaningfully with yourself, others and your environment.

Horses help make conscious in us, that which is unconscious. Highly sensitive animals, horses respond to subtle changes in our body language and behaviour and thus provide valuable feedback on whom & how we are in the moment. Examining human to equine interaction and exchanges can lead to powerful new insights into our own natural abilities and talents, therefore enhancing and promoting opportunities for personal growth.

Horses are ancient creatures as a species they have survived for over 50 million years. As prey animals, their lives depend upon their ability to correctly assess situations and react accordingly. They have an extremely heightened intuitive sense, enabling them to accurately perceive what is happening in their environment, and to communicate this to the rest of the herd. Invisible layers of electromagnetic energy guide them through their daily lives. Therefore they have the ability to reflect back to us our internal state. When we as humans begin to decode their feedback and by coming to understand energetic interactions, we can learn more about ourselves and others.

Horses make visible the invisible, if we are open to learning how to “see”.

Workshop content:

- Understand and use emotion as information
- Access a more mindful and intuitive presence
- Establish and maintain optimal personal space for health and well-being
- Use your body as a sensory device and discover the power of non-verbal communication
- Recognize and move beyond the limiting, unconscious beliefs and behaviours that keep us stuck in old patterns of thinking & behaviour
- Learn to distinguish social conditioning from authentic behaviours and beliefs
- Explore the power of vulnerability
- Overcome counterproductive ways of thinking and reacting, learning to respond with heart-centred presence.
- Experience congruence - incongruence impedes connection, horses co-operate with us when our body and our minds are in sync (congruent)
- Listen to your body - a rich source of information for life/work balance
- Exercise your intuition, recognise and let go of negative mind states, beliefs & chatter
- Discuss the implications of predatory and non-predatory power in relationship and group dynamics.
- Learn how to create an authentic community experience, thus building a safe space to explore self-development
